

Samantha Lourandou
Treasurer
WISTA Hellas

Samantha Lourandou was born in Athens in 1977. Her roots trace back to Cerigo, and she was raised in the Middle East. She is a mother to two teenagers, a son and a daughter.

Samantha holds a Bachelor's degree from the University of Piraeus, with a specialization in Shipping. She earned her Master of Science from London Metropolitan University, focusing on International Trade and Transport. Subsequently, she has engaged in a variety of independent training and educational programs, acquiring numerous certifications. Being a fervent advocate for lifelong learning, she finds immense pleasure and relaxation in reading.

Having dedicated nearly three decades to the shipping industry, she has garnered insights across most subsections of a shipping company, while her primary focus has been in purchasing and freight forwarding. She is also deeply passionate about human interaction and communication.

Samantha is actively involved in social responsibility initiatives, which is evident through her participation in various non-profit organizations.

She is Treasurer of WISTA Hellas, a non-profit business organization that has been operational in Greece for 31 years and is closely affiliated with WISTA International, present in 62 countries. The association aims to promote equal opportunities and meritocracy while supporting the education of its members through scholarships and monthly discussions organized by the board and delivered by the members to the members of WISTA.
